Clinical Faculty Shadowing Program NWSM

Northwest School of Medicine provides an opportunity for undergraduate medical students to get exposure to the different clinical specialties by shadowing doctors/clinicians of their choice. Students may spend time with doctors in their clinics, operation theatres, emergency department, ward rounds, and any other setting the doctor is available at to get observational shadowing experiences.

Throughout the academic year, students from 1st to final year may have opportunities to shadow any doctor of their choice depending on the availability of doctors and students. DMER will then make the necessary arrangements for shadowing when the students put up an application after a mutual agreement between the doctor and student.

Students are encouraged to connect with doctors of their choice to confirm shadowing days and times. Shadowing must occur outside regularly scheduled class times. Please follow through with your commitments as the doctors who are participating have given up their time for you.

Students are required to complete the following Student Specialty Selection Form to participate in the Shadowing Program.
